Policy Agenda

Introduction

The Government is committed to making Hong Kong a treasured home to our people, where everyone enjoys the opportunity to realise his or her potential and lead a fulfilling life. In the last Policy Address, the Chief Executive set out the Government's role in supporting Hong Kong's economic development in an appropriately proactive way. He also mapped out the directions and initiatives to address the challenges on livelihood issues, including housing and land supply, poverty alleviation, care for the elderly and environmental protection, amongst others.

In the past year, the Government has worked in earnest to take forward various policies and measures to sustain our economic growth and to address many of Hong Kong's deep-seated problems. On a number of important issues, we have achieved significant milestones and laid a solid foundation for the way forward. These include the promulgation of the poverty line in September last year, the public consultation exercise on Long Term Housing Strategy undertaken in September to December 2013, the public engagement exercise on Population Policy which started in last October and the public consultation on constitutional development launched in last December.

This Policy Agenda includes new initiatives announced in the context of this year's Policy Address and on-going initiatives of the Government. The new initiatives are focused on assisting low-income families, the elderly and the less privileged, instilling hope and vigour into our younger generation and helping them face their life challenges, improving the environment and our quality of living. At the same time, we will enhance our economic development by sharpening our competitive edge and capitalising on our fast developing transport and economic links with the Mainland.

In the coming year, it is important that the community forge a consensus on the Long Term Housing Strategy, the Population Policy, and the methods for selecting the Chief Executive by universal suffrage in 2017 and for forming the Legislative Council in 2016. These are major subjects that have enormous impact on Hong Kong's future.

The past success of Hong Kong was premised on the resilience of our people. The Government will continue to work hand in hand with every citizen to build a better Hong Kong.

Chapter 1

Economic Development

Preamble

Continuous and sustainable economic growth is a prerequisite for Hong Kong to tackle housing, poverty, ageing population and environmental problems. Promoting economic development is the primary goal of the Government. We are committed to maintaining a business-friendly environment with a simple and low tax regime. It is pivotal for us to continue to invest in world-class infrastructure to support our economic development and sharpen our competitive edge.

To promote economic development, the Government will be “appropriately proactive”. The Government has established the Economic Development Commission and the Financial Services Development Council to formulate a holistic industrial policy and identify ways to further Hong Kong’s economic success. The Government will also continue to advance economic and financial co-operation with the Mainland by capitalising on the enormous growth opportunities arising from the implementation of the National 12th Five-Year Plan.

The Trading and Logistics Industry is the biggest contributor to Hong Kong’s economy. We will continue to strengthen our trade and economic relations with the Mainland and overseas countries to secure better access to their markets. In particular, we will assist our business and service industries to tap the Mainland market by taking advantage of the “Mainland and Hong Kong Closer Economic Partnership Arrangement” (CEPA).

In maintaining Hong Kong’s status as an international financial centre and the competitive edge of our financial services industry, the Government works actively to modernise the regulatory framework, strengthen investor protection, and promote the diversification of services and products.

Hong Kong’s economic success is built on our firm belief in, and respect for, the rule of law. We shall continue to promote the development of Hong Kong as an international legal and dispute resolution services centre in the Asia Pacific region, which will be a positive force to foster our economic development.

Chapter 2

Land, Housing and Transportation

Preamble

Housing is an important livelihood issue for the public as well as the Government.

Our policy objectives for housing are to –

- (a) assist grassroots families to secure public rental housing (PRH) to meet their basic housing needs;
- (b) assist the public to choose accommodation according to their affordability and personal circumstances, and encourage those who can afford it to buy their own homes;
- (c) provide subsidised home ownership flats on top of PRH so as to build a progressive housing ladder; and
- (d) maintain the healthy and steady development of the private residential property market, with priority to be given to meet Hong Kong permanent residents' needs amidst a tight supply situation.

Increasing land supply is fundamental to addressing Hong Kong's housing needs, as well as our continued social and economic development. In the short to medium term, we are stepping up our efforts to increase land supply through on-going land use reviews and optimising the use of developed land. In the longer term, we will develop new land extensively through new development areas in the

New Territories and Lantau, reclamation outside Victoria Harbour, rock cavern development and underground space development. The objective is to build up a land reserve for Hong Kong's sustainable development and to respond more flexibly and timely to present and future needs. All these required the society as a whole to make difficult choices and accept trade-offs. An extensive public consultation exercise was carried out between 3 September 2013 and 2 December 2013 on the Long Term Housing Strategy. The above issues have been the subjects of the consultation. The Government is committed to adopting a robust long-term housing strategy, taking into account the results of this consultation exercise.

With a growing population and continuous development, facilitating the public to move around to undertake social and economic activities is also a challenge. We encourage the use of public transport and will maintain a quality and efficient multi-modal public transport network, with railway as the backbone, complemented by buses, public light buses, taxis and other modes.

We are taking forward five new railway projects in full swing. Upon their completion in phases by 2020, our railway network will cover areas inhabited by over 70% of the population in Hong Kong. In parallel, we will step up our efforts in rationalising road-based transport services, franchised buses in particular. This would help ease road congestion, alleviate the pressure for fare increases and reduce road-side emissions.

To enhance Hong Kong's external transport links, we are pressing ahead with the construction of the Hong Kong-Zhuhai-Macao Bridge, the Liantang/Heung Yuen Wai Boundary Control Point project and pursuing with the Airport Authority in planning for the expansion of our airport into a three-runway system.

New Initiatives

We will:

(DEVB/THB)
  - Take forward a Pilot Scheme for Arbitration on Land Premium to facilitate and speed up agreement between the Government and private land owners on premium charged for lease modification and land exchange transactions through arbitration. (DEVB)

Chapter 3

Poverty Alleviation and Support for the Disadvantaged

Preamble

In December 2012 the Commission on Poverty (CoP) was reinstated to consider policies and measures to prevent and ease poverty and social exclusion, as well as to promote social mobility. Six Task Forces have been established, covering improving the social security and retirement protection systems; supporting the underprivileged who have special needs; promoting education, employment and training to encourage self-reliance and better social mobility; engaging the community and fostering cross-sectoral collaboration among the Government, businesses and the community; and implementation of poverty alleviation and prevention measures and social innovation initiatives funded by the Community Care Fund (CCF) and the Social Innovation and Entrepreneurship Development Fund respectively.

At the first CoP Summit on 28 September 2013, the Government announced a poverty line and provided analysis of the population below that line to guide future work. The working poor have been identified as deserving Government's priority attention. Through the proposed Low Income Working Family Allowance, low-income families, particularly those with children, will receive strengthened financial support.

To help address intergenerational poverty, we will ensure that children and young people enjoy equal opportunities to quality education and training irrespective of background.

For those disadvantaged members of the community who cannot support themselves, we will continue to meet their basic living needs through the Comprehensive Social Security Assistance Scheme (CSSA) acting as a safety net of last resort. For those who can work, education, training and employment support will be further developed to enable them to share the benefits of economic growth.

We will strengthen support for persons with special needs, including persons with disabilities, ethnic minorities (EMs), single parents and families at risk. We will seek to remove the barriers that hold them back from realising and fulfilling their aspirations. Client-centred, family-focused and community-based services that provide integrated, cross-sectoral support will continue to be developed.

Chapter 4

Medical Services, Public Health and Elderly Care

Preamble

Hong Kong has a high-quality healthcare system supported by a team of highly professional healthcare workers. Our public and private medical sectors provide a wide range of services, including a low-cost public healthcare “safety net” that ensures no one in Hong Kong is denied medical care due to a lack of means.

We will seek to ensure the long-term sustainability of our healthcare system through a series of reform measures, including promoting long-term development of primary care and Chinese medicine, the proposed introduction of the Health Protection Scheme and revamping the regulatory regime for private healthcare facilities.

In face of the challenges brought about by an ageing population and the changes in the prevalence of diseases, we will uphold our firm commitment to providing quality and affordable public healthcare services. We will increase the capacity of the healthcare system on the one hand and enhance service quality on the other, through service and infrastructure development.

The Government is committed to building and maintaining a healthy community. We devote a lot of efforts to ensure that the wide variety of food available for consumption is safe, and the public at large are free from threats of animal diseases. We also work tirelessly to provide a clean and hygienic environment.

As Hong Kong moves steadily to an ageing society (with the number of elderly people aged 65 and above rising from 1.02 million or 14% of the population in 2012 to a hefty 2.56 million or 30% in 2041), elderly care ranks high on the current-term Government's policy and action agenda.

Our objective is to enable our senior citizens to live in dignity and to provide the necessary support for them to promote their sense of belonging, security and worthiness. We will continue to implement a host of measures and initiatives to enhance elderly care on all fronts.

We will step up our efforts in promoting active ageing. Our aim is to facilitate the elderly to lead a more fulfilled life in their golden years and harness their wealth of experience, knowledge and expertise through continued learning, volunteer service and participation in social and economic activities.

For the frail elderly, we strive to provide quality and cost-effective long-term care services in line with our policy of promoting "ageing in place as the core, institutional care as back-up". In this respect, we will strengthen and expand community and home care services whilst at the same time increase and enhance subsidised residential care services.

In meeting the growing needs and aspirations of our ageing population, we will not only strive for quality and quantity in services but also seek to provide diversity and choices, including measures to facilitate those elderly persons who choose to retire in Guangdong.

Chapter 5

Environment and Conservation

Preamble

Sustainable development requires a proper balance among environmental protection, heritage conservation, economic development and providing for social needs.

This Administration has laid a solid foundation for environmental protection in its first year by mapping out clear targets and work plans for air quality and waste management in two published blueprints. We are taking concrete steps to actualize the blueprints through various initiatives and programmes. The challenges to improving air quality and reducing waste are huge. However, in partnership with the public, we are determined to make significant progress during this term of office.

The community is increasingly aware of the impact on their quality of life if we fail to conserve our natural environment. A major effort to address this issue is our work to develop a Biodiversity Strategy and Action Plan for Hong Kong as part of our commitment under the United Nations' Convention on Biological Diversity.

To meet the concerns of climate change, we have redoubled our efforts on various initiatives to achieve higher energy efficiency and promote a less carbon intensive lifestyle.

To make Hong Kong a better city for all, we will continue to enhance infrastructure to provide a safe and quality living environment. At the same time, we will improve the greening, landscape and tree management regime through the adoption of a holistic and professional approach as well as engaging stakeholders under the “Be Our Greening Partner” Campaign.

We wish to preserve the city’s charm whilst respecting the need for development. Together with the Antiquities Advisory Board, we will consult the public on the way forward for our built heritage conservation policy.

Chapter 6

Education, Population and Human Resources

Preamble

People are the most precious resource for this city's continued success. For Hong Kong to stay competitive, we need to nurture local talents with global perspectives, while proactively attracting talents from around the world to build up our pool of human capital. We should also foster an inclusive environment where people of different backgrounds can develop their potential. The Steering Committee on Population Policy is conducting a public engagement exercise, with a view to mapping out key strategies and specific measures to address these challenges.

Development of one's potential starts with education. The overall vision and mission of our education policies is to offer all-round and balanced learning opportunities for our students, in order to lay the foundation for their lifelong learning, so that they not only learn successfully but can apply what they have learnt. We will ensure the quality of education by making further improvements within the framework of the existing policies. Providing 15-year free education and better quality kindergarten education is our aim. We have set up a dedicated committee to study how to practicably implement free kindergarten education.

The Government is committed to providing flexible and diversified study pathways with multiple entry and exit points for secondary school leavers. We shall increase the opportunities for youngsters to pursue quality post-secondary programmes. At the same time, we attach equal significance to vocational education and training, which provide valuable credentials and articulation opportunities through a full range of pre-employment and in-service programmes. We will strengthen our life planning and career guidance services to better prepare our young people to make informed decisions on the different choices available to them from school to work, and also promote continuing learning, so as to strengthen their confidence in the future.

Employment for local workers has always been our priority. We provide comprehensive recruitment and employment services as well as specialised employment programmes to cater for job seekers with different employment needs.

In protecting workers' rights and benefits, we take rigorous enforcement actions against breaches of labour laws. We will facilitate informed and in-depth discussion on the way forward for a working hours policy.

Cherishing the family is a core value of our community. We will continue to collaborate with various sectors in the community to create a pro-family environment. We will take forward legislation for paid paternity leave and will continue to promote other family-friendly employment practices to help employees achieve a better balance between work and family lives.

Preamble

Young people are precious assets of our society and our future. Our youth development policy will focus on creating opportunities for them and helping them to realise their potential. ## Chapter 8

Governance, Constitutional Development and District Administration

Preamble

The rule of law is vital for safeguarding our rights and freedoms as well as instrumental in continuing Hong Kong's success story as an international financial and commercial centre. We will continue to make improvements to our legal system and enhance our legal infrastructure with a view to ensuring the proper administration of justice.

Law and order is the cornerstone of a stable society. Our disciplined services are firmly committed to maintaining Hong Kong as one of the safest cities in the world. We also provide quality emergency rescue services to protect the life and property of our people.

We will take forward Hong Kong's constitutional development. The Basic Law provides that the ultimate aim is to select the Chief Executive of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region (CE) and elect all members of LegCo by universal suffrage, in light of the actual situation in Hong Kong and in accordance with the principle of gradual and orderly progress. The Decision by the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress (NPCSC) in 2007 further made clear the timetable for implementing universal suffrage in Hong Kong, i.e. universal suffrage may be implemented for selecting CE in 2017 and following that, all Members of LegCo may be returned by universal suffrage.

The Administration is firmly committed to implementing the selection of CE by universal suffrage in 2017. According to the Interpretation of NPCSC in 2004, for any amendments to the methods for selecting CE and for forming LegCo annexed to the Basic Law, there is a need to go through a “Five-step Process” of constitutional development, i.e. CE to make a report to NPCSC; NPCSC to determine whether to make amendments to the electoral methods; all Members of LegCo to decide whether to pass the proposal of amending the electoral methods proposed by the Government; CE to give consent to the proposal; and the proposal to be submitted to NPCSC for approval or for the record.

We have formally launched a five-month public consultation on 4 December 2013 on the methods for selecting CE in 2017 and for forming LegCo in 2016.

We will take forward the concept of “addressing district issues at the local level and capitalising on local opportunities” in strengthening district administration. We have been providing support for District Councils to facilitate them in playing an enhanced role in resolving district issues, participating in the management of some district facilities, and implementing District Minor Works Programme and community involvement activities.

We will engage the public, including LegCo and District Councils, as early as practicable in the planning and implementation of government policies and programmes as appropriate.

An effective government relies heavily on a professional and dedicated civil service. Our civil servants will stay committed to serving the community with tenacity and passion.
